How did you hear about the DFGOYC Youth Mentor Program?
select one
 Friend Teacher After School Program
 Table at Lunch Family Member

Why do you want a mentor? (For tutoring, advice, friendship, "big brother/big sister," to learn about college life, or as someone to just hang out with?)

What kind of person would you like your mentor to be? (A good listener, active in sports, etc.)

What are three words that would best describe you?

Please describe three things that you are good at:

Is there anything that you would change about yourself?

What clubs, activities, or sports are you in now? How much of your time do these activities take up?

What kind of activities would you like to do with the DFGOYC Youth Mentor Program?

Is there anything else that you would like to describe about yourself that may help us find the best mentor for you?

We will do our best to match you with a mentor who has similar interests and who we think will be a good role model for the upcoming year. You should meet with your mentor for 2-3 hours a week and try to attend the group activities each month at the Destined for Greatness Outreach Youth Center. Your mentor will let you know the times and dates of these fun events. In order to gain the most from the program, you need to make an effort just like the mentor. Please answer the following questions:

Will you try your best to meet with your mentor every week?

Yes No

Will you try your best to attend every monthly group event?

Yes No

Time Schedule

Please outline your daily schedule so we can determine when you are busy and when you are free. This way, we can match you with a mentor with the same schedule. Have a parent or guardian help you with this part.

My Schedule
Example: I have school until 3:00 pm every day. I also have basketball practice Tuesday and Thursday from 4:00-5:00 pm. I have piano lessons on Saturday at 10:00-11:00 am.

Mentee Guidelines

Important Information for Becoming a Mentee

What is the purpose of the program?
The Youth Mentor Program is designed to give your child an opportunity to have a one-on-one relationship with a DFGOYC student. Through these relationships, as well as recreational and group activities, mentors provide friendship, support, and guidance to your child. The mentors are there to act as a positive role model and confidant.

Can my child be tutored by his or her mentor?
The DFGOYC Youth Mentor Program is not a tutoring program. While sometimes pairs decide to tutor on school work, this is not a requirement for the mentors. There are many other programs that focus on tutoring if you feel that your child needs academic support. The Youth Mentor Program focuses on fostering lasting and meaningful relationships between the mentor and mentee rather than concentrating just on academics.

What about transportation?
It is the responsibility of each mentor-mentee pair to decide on a transportation plan that will work for them. Please be aware that most mentors in the Youth Mentor Program do not have cars. If the mentor does have a car and is willing to drive your child, you will need to fill out a waiver form. If the mentor does not have a car and you cannot help with the transportation of your child, we often recommend that the mentor and mentee try to meet at a location that would be a midpoint and convenient for both. There is also a parent carpool list that parents can be placed on if they are interested in coordinating carpools to events with other parents whose children are in the program.

Please contact us if you would like to be added and receive a copy of this roster.

Who are the mentors and why do they want to be a part of the program?
Mentors are DFGOYC volunteers and students from a variety of different backgrounds. They have been interviewed, trained, had their references checked, and carefully matched with middle school students. Mentors have a variety of motivations for getting involved with the program. However, all mentors want to be a positive role model in a child's life.

When will my child meet with their mentor? What kinds of activities will they do together?
Meetings will be at a day and time convenient to you, your child, and the mentor. There is no scheduled location or activity for the meetings. Rather, mentors will call your child to set up plans for the week. Activities range from going to the library, to visiting college campuses, to seeing movies, or sporting activities. All activities are agreed upon by you, your child, and the mentor.

The only events that are pre-arranged are monthly events that we hold for the entire organization. These events typically take place on Friday evenings or Saturday afternoons. You will be informed of these events by your child's mentor, as well as by mailings that we will send out the week prior to the event.

What should I do if my child cannot attend a meeting or event with their mentor?
Have your child call his or her mentor and reschedule the meeting to a time that is more convenient. Be sure to keep the phone numbers of the mentor handy so that you or your child can call them when needed. If you cannot reach the mentor, please call Destined for Greatness Outreach Youth Center, Inc. at (877) 571-6614 Extension 1 and leave a message with the Youth Mentor Program.

What if family plans conflict with a meeting?
The mentor should compliment or add to family opportunities. Time with the mentor is not intended to displace time with the family. You should continue your normal family plans. The mentor and your child should plan their time together around your family's normal schedule as much as possible. It may help to let your child and their mentor know about planned family events in advance to help avoid conflicts.

Can other family members or I go with my child and the mentor?
A mentoring relationship is special in part because it is a one-on-one relationship. Even teens that feel very close to their parents sometimes need to talk with friends outside of the family. The mentor is an adult friend with whom your child can talk about feelings that concern him or her. Please respect their private time together. Moreover, mentors are not baby-sitters and cannot be responsible for anyone except their mentee. The mentor and your child will inform you about their plans each week. If at any time you are uncomfortable with their plans, please let us know. Mentors will be sensitive to your parental concerns and will try to find an arrangement that is acceptable to you.

How can I be sure that the mentor will support my rules and regulations?
In the beginning, talk to the mentor about any rules or regulations that you expect to arise in his or her relationship with your child. If you have strict rules about curfew, activities in which your child may not participate, etc. then please discuss these with the mentor. By making this information known at the beginning, you can help avoid misunderstandings later.

What if the mentor says things with which I do not agree?
No matter how carefully we match mentors and mentees, you may find that some areas of your beliefs and ideas differ with those of the mentor's. If there are important issues to you, please let the mentor know. You can request that the mentor NOT question your most important beliefs or values when with your child.

Who will pay for activities of the mentor and my child?
Mentors and mentees always pay for their own expenses. If there is a cost for an activity, then you or your child will be responsible for the youth's fair share. Monthly events at DFGOYC are cost-free; we also provide mentors with many low-cost or no-cost activity suggestions. As with any friend, mentors may treat your child occasionally, but it should not be expected on a regular basis.

How often should I be in contact with the mentor and how much should I say about family problems/ concerns?
Get to know the mentor well enough to feel comfortable with him or her being with you child. Before each meeting, discuss the plans and times for returning home. Try talking directly to the mentor about your concerns, but please avoid talking to the mentor about your child in front of your child. If there is something the mentor should really know, then call them when your child is not around.

What if there are concerns or questions I don't want to discuss with their mentor?
Please feel free to contact the President, Mr. James Kyles Jr by phone at (877) 571-6614 ext. 1 or email at mentor@dfgyouth.org. He is here to make the Youth Mentor Program work for students, mentors, and parents. A Steering Committee member will call you several times during the school year to see how things are going. But don't wait for them to call! We would like to know about anything that concerns you as soon as possible.
